Personal Info

Profile

I'm an enthusiastic and highly experienced mobile application developer. I also have an excellent taste in User Interface (UI) with a strong background in graphic design and a broad knowledge and practical experience in User Experience (UX) design.

I professionally develop applications for both Android and iOS devices and can easily adapt to almost any IT related environment. I am a determined person and have been a great team player during several years of my professional career. While working hard for my previous employer, I also set up my own business partnership to develop applications for a wide range of international clients.

I am so easy to talk to and always listen carefully to my clients and their demands. I always develop applications with a personal touch to ensure bringing my client's dreams into life smoothly and professionally.
